Important customer information

Last order information: LinMot Drives Series E1100

Dear Sirs

In production almost 20 years, the LinMot drive series E1100 will phase out by the end of 2019. The main component manufacturer is discontinuing the production of the processors and no suitable replacement types are available.

Your company has purchased products that may be affected by the discontinuation.

1. Phase Out: Last Order Date April 30, 2019

Standard commercial orders with an order date prior to the Last Order Date will be accepted and delivered by December 31, 2019 or earlier.

After April 30, 2019 prices can be significantly higher and serial production availability is not ensured.

2. Cancelled Product: from January 1, 2020

From January 1, 2020, the E1100 series drives will be available as spare parts only until January 1, 2025 and, depending on component availability, may even extend until January 1, 2029 (replacement, exchange of defective parts or repair). If required, spare parts may be produced from the repair of defective devices.

3. End of Product Live: no later than January 1, 2029

By January 1, 2029 at the latest, the E1100 series drives will be definitively discontinued. Technical Support will also be discontinued on this date.

Please contact your local LinMot Sales Engineer with any questions regarding this product discontinuation, the products or to place any orders. For technical questions or questions about replacement products, please contact LinMot technical support.

Best regards
